

Videos on Learning Disabilities

Often, it is most helpful to learn by watching videos. Videos can be a great way to learn more, or foster a conversation, about learning disabilities. Being educated about learning disabilities can help your child to cope and develop strategies to help with their disability. While there are many videos that aren't worth watching, there are many that are. We have collected some of the best videos available on the Internet. Check out the excellent videos below about learning disabilities, updated regularly by our team at South County Child and Family Consultants. Pay careful attention to which videos are designed for kids and which are designed for adults.
