

Four Books for Parents and Teachers Working With Children Who Exhibit Problem Behavior

Children often explore the social norms and limitations surrounding socially acceptable behavior. However, most children will learn how to cope with these feelings in a socially appropriate manner, while some children will continue to struggle with this.

This could include a child behaving in a way that lacks obedience and/or exhibits high aggression. It can be hard to work with and handle these children when they act out in a number of different settings.

Our team of neuropsychologists, school psychologists, and psychology students at South County Child and Family Consultants are committed to searching the Internet and beyond to find reputable, informative, and practical tools to help educate parents on how to help children who struggle with behavior management. We look for the best information online to help kids diagnosed with ADHD, Learning Disabilities, Executive Functioning Difficulties, struggles with Social Emotional Learning (SEL) skills, Autism, Depression, and Anxiety and provide you with information about how neuropsychological evaluations help in targeting concerns about behavior management. Come back regularly, as the links are updated frequently.
